POOR MAN MURDERED

FOUR HEADS IN FATAL BRAWL

Officer Shot Down at Roadhouse Just Outside New Bedford Today

New Bedford, Sept. 27.—Patrolman Thomas A. Chiswell is dead in St. Luke's Hospital from a bullet wound in his stomach and four young men are held here on the charge of murder as the sequel to a brawl in a road house today in Mattapoisett.

Chiswell was not on duty. Two of the men arrested, Clifford A. Hurley, a cook, and Joseph C. Kelly, a druggist, were slightly wounded. The others are James W. Walsh, a real estate dealer, and James E. O'Hara, a fireman. According to the police, the men engaged in a scuffle at the road house, culminating in the firing of several shots.

The four men brought Chiswell to the hospital here in an automobile and were arrested while there. To women who were in the road house are held as witnesses. They are Minnie Dwyer, of No. 64 Talman street and Mary Souza, both married and both of this city.

JAPS DEIFIED BY U. S. OFFICER

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 27.—According to information from headquarters of the Eleventh Naval District, Lieutenant-Commander William A. Glasford, aboard the United States destroyer Tracy, defied orders of Japanese authorities by anchoring in Yokohama harbor soon after the recent earthquake and tsunami, and remaining there to aid in recruiting Americans and other foreign victims. The Tracy is flagship of the destroyer fleet on the Asiatic station.

The anchor hardly had dropped before an order came from shore that the warship could not remain. Glasford ignored the order and proceeded with rescue work, rendering notable service. After a conference the Yokohama officials made no further protest.

WORCESTER CALLS COPS FOR K. K.

Every Policeman in City Summoned for Meeting at Mechanics Hall

Worcester, Sept. 27.—The entire police force of Worcester was on duty tonight when the Ku Klux Klan holds its meeting in Mechanics Hall. All members of the day force have been ordered by the chief of police to report at headquarters at 6 o'clock for duty as a reserve force.

In the meantime, Mayor Peter F. Sullivan, who failed in his efforts to prevent the Klan gathering, has written a proclamation which will be read in all the schools of the city this afternoon and published in the newspapers. The Mayor will appeal to the citizens to keep away from the Klan meeting hall.

This announcement followed a charge that tickets of admission had been counterfeited. Additional tickets were being granted today and will be distributed.

Directors of the Worcester County Mechanics' Association, at a meeting behind closed doors, which lasted more than three hours, voted not to revoke a permit granted to the Klan for an open meeting tonight.

Mayor Sullivan had made a formal request in writing that the meeting be canceled. The mayor added that appeals had been made to him during the past twenty-four hours by persons in all walks of life and by organizations asking him to do all in his power to prevent the Ku Klux Klan meeting being held.

2 HURT IN EVERETT; $15,000 IN GAS GONE

Two men were injured and $15,000 worth of gasoline destroyed today by a blue of unknown origin which ignited a 5000-gallon high pressure gasoline still at the plant of the Boston Oil Company, Beschan, street, Everett.

William Maguire, foreman of Ladd No. 1, was hit in the face by a stream of kerosene, used by the plant in extinguishing the flame, and temporarily blinded. He was treated at St. Mary's hospital.

his eyelid is permanently injured. Leslie Cushing, employe in charge of the still, was burned about the jaw and hands and treated in the emergency room of the plant. He was sent to his home.

An automatic device let the flame of the burning gas upward, preventing an explosion. The flames shot 150 feet in the air, making a spectacular sight which drew a large crowd. The fire spread to an adjoining gasoline tank, also burning in its contents.

DOREN COMES BACK IN DAZED CONDITION

David A. Doren, treasurer of the Y. W. H. Co., Inc., of Atlantic avenue, who disappeared mysteriously from his home, No. 125, Chatham street, Brighton, Sunday, returned today in a dazed condition.

He was unable to give an account of his wanderings or the reason for his absence, and was placed under the care of a physician.

Before he left home Sunday morning Doren and his wife planned to spend the afternoon with relatives. He said he was going to the office to work on his books, but failed to return.

BET WARD WILL BE SET FREE

Odls 2 to 1 on Acquittal of Millionaire Slayer of Peters

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Walter S. Ward, the millionaire baker's son, who shot Clarence S. Peters of Haverhill, Mass., to death, will go free.

So Boston and New York bet today. Odds were 2 to 1.

The trial was the outstanding episode of the day as the famous case neared its end.

It is the general consensus that gray haired Isaac N. Mills, former judge, and chief of Ward's battery of high-priced lawyers, ridiculed the State's case against the young millionaire and scored a noteworthy dramatic coup when he called to the spot and soon young slayer and his family wife to stand before the jury and let the 12 sages face them.

"Look at them," commanded Judge Mills, his gray head bobbing in emphasis, "Look at them. Does any man among you believe you Turn Over."

ALLEN B. FORBES, BANKER, DEAD
New York, Sept. 27.—Allen Boyd Forbes, chairman of the board of Harris, Forbes & Co., bankers and stock dealers, is dead at his home in Greenwich, Ct. He was born in Cleveland and educated at Northwestern University and Yale University. He came to New York in 1891 to take charge of the office of N. W. Harris & Co., which firm he had become a partner in 1899. The firm has an office in Boston.

Massachusetts closed the "motor frontier" to more than 100 Rhode Island motorists when they reached the State line at South Attleboro, because of improperly focused lights. They were warned a second offense would result in revocation of license to drive in the Commonwealth.

ROBBER LEAPS OUT WINDOW WITH GIRL'S SPENDING MONEY

A daring burglar who may be nominated a candidate for the meanest man prize was interrupted as he ransacked the home of Harry Cantor at No. 213 Walnut avenue, Roxbury. He escaped by leaping through a screened window. Helen Cantor, fifteen years old, had been studying her school lessons in a dining room of their home. She heard a noise and stepped into the kitchen in time to see the man dive through the screen. Her purse had been rifled of $4, her silver, except from her father.

are looking at a cold-blooded murderer." The State today opened its attack upon the address Judge Mills had taken four hours and fifteen minutes to deliver. The case will probably not reach the jury until tomorrow, an ancient custom holding good in New York State whereby juries are not charged after the noon hour.

STATE ARGUMENT.

"A pitiful demonstration against conclusive and damaging evidence," shouted Attorney General Carl Sherman, firing his opening gun today. "A smoke screen," he shouted, "Camouflage. All meant to hide the inhumanity of these attorneys to hide this man's guilt."

"I have no apology to make for this prosecution," Sherman asserted, answering Judge Mills' charges of "unfairness" on the part of the State.

"Ward has said he always wanted a trial before a jury. Here was his chance to have his mythical story here. You swear on your oath as juror that you would not be swayed by sympathy and I hold you as men to that oath," Sherman said.

He grew bitter in his attack on Mills for his plea of sympathy, made in the name of Mrs. Ward, and the second man's two children.

"Walter Ward surrendered himself, thinking he could just swing things over here, but you can't swing from the fact that it was his finger that pulled the trigger of the gun that killed Clarence Peters," said the prosecutor.

SHOWS DEATH GUN.

Sherman held the death gun in his hands—his finger on the trigger, illustrating with oratorical, dramatic effect the story of the killing.

He pointed to Ward, dapper and serene as he sat at his counsel's table. Beside him was his loyal young wife who has taken the witness stand to aid him and who has all throughout the trial.

CROWD STORMS COURT.

The court today was stormed by an excited eager mob composed mostly of fashionably dressed women eager to hear the Attorney General tongue lash the son of the good baker.

A line had formed at the court house door as early as 7 o'clock. It

Flood of Letters Pours in Upon Ward's Wife

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 27.—In the two weeks of the trial of Walter S. Ward here, his wife, Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, has received more than 2,000 letters from all parts of the country.

"Almost without exception they are from people I do not know—people who express their belief in Walter's innocence," Mrs. Ward said today as she opened some sixty letters awaiting her in the court clerk's office.

"There are some, of course, who condemn, but they are unsigned," she said. "Some day I am going to answer every one—as soon as I feel strong enough."

There was a ripple through the crowd when Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, who collapsed on Wednesday, made her entrance.

She carried half a dozen handkerchiefs in one hand, while from the pocket of letters in the other hand and displayed at the trial.

WARD'S FACE WHITE.

Ward's face was white. Mrs. Ward, who was very dry throughout all the winter of the trial, was pale and shuddered and wept.

Judge Mills spoke of how young Ward and his wife turned to him and put his hand on her forehead. There were tears in his eyes.

It was the first positive emotion he had displayed at the trial.

Father Gives Away Wrong Baby

FIVE YEARS AGO yesterday more than 400,000 United States soldiers began the drive on the Argonne. Sixteen thousand were killed, many wounded, in fighting that stretched along a forty-mile front. Soon after that the war was over.

Five years ago, and the soldiers, to whom excited and frightened big pocketbooks promised the moon and stars, have not yet received a penny of the pitifully small bonus that represents the dwindling down of all the gratitudes.

Five years ago, and Europe is worse off than when the war ended. France's national debt has doubled. European governments have changed from democracies to something like olden Egypt and Germany. Napoleon's France is as Napoleon's France, military boss of Europe. Italy and Spain are under one-man rule, such as with a King sitting under the cloak of a satrapized dictator.

THE UNITED STATES sits along, still prosperous. Its big concerns worried only about finding good investments for surplus money. Whether we are doing wonders, or coasting, with the power shut off, we don't yet know.

Much is done in five years. Colonel William Boyce Thompson, who financed the Harding campaign and knows a good deal about money, says we are all right, and LET HEARS TAKE WARNING. He adds:

"There's an awful lot of money in this country waiting to be invested. If the stock market ever starts upward, you'll see fireworks that will amaze you."

FRANK MUNSIEY, head, watchful, gathers statistics proving this sad satirical state. For each group of 100 men in the country, only 62 new suits of clothes are sold in 1923. And only 22 in 100 new hats. As for underwear, the buying is deplorable.

MUNSIEY may be wrong in his claim that "half the males are in rags." Modern ready-made garments are marvelously enduring. And some men, to their honor, would rather buy a new dress "for the misses" than a new suit for themselves.

IT'S A MISTAKE, however, to neglect outside appearance. Not merely are you judged, respected or rejected, according to your outward look, depending on it as a second-hand car depends on its coat of paint. But new clothes, right clothes make men. Especially the young. (1923). THAT THEY ARE ALL RIGHT. And that feeling looks success.

Get your new suit, hat and shoes now. It will be higher next year. And don't forget new neckties. They're very important. Read Sartor Resartus.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, head of union labor, objects to prohibition. He says the Eighteenth Amendment will bring to a modification, authorizing light wine and beer, in both parties.

That effort will be watched with interest, especially by the women, including workmen's wives and daughters. They probably vote against a Continued on Page 4, Column 4.

Woman in Her Life Story Tells of Millionaire's Schemes to Divorce Her

By HELEN ELWOOD STOKES. (Copyright, 1923, by Evening American Publishing Company and Distributed by Compulsory News Service.)
Chicago, Sept. 27.—The almighty dollars of W. E. D. Stokes, piled high into a seemingly insurmountable barrier to justice, once frightened me. I thought, in those early days of my court fight, that perhaps might be right, but now I know that I mightily God, who sees our hearts, cannot withhold love from an innocent woman who is fighting for her children and for right. He has aided me in a miraculous manner and I have now no fear for the outcome.

START OF THE PLOT

As early as the summer of 1913 my husband plotted to get rid of me. We had gone with Wendie Elwood Stokes' son, his tutor, Harold Gould, Clifford Moore, a cousin of Mr. Stokes' and his fiancée, who is now Mrs. Moore, to our summer home in Lexington, Ky. Wendie was then about eighteen years old and I was twenty-six. The court friendship that had existed between us continued. It was an ideal companionship of a young boy for an older woman who had been kind to him. Wendie said a thousand times that Summer that I had made him the only home he had ever known and that he would never be able to show his gratitude. He and his tutor, Mr. Gould, "roughed it" a good deal during the Summer and Wendie spent really very little time with Mr. Stokes, Mr. Moore and me. They had jobs on the sleeping porch and a living room—a kind of do-it-yourself job, which they used for their quarters.

When we returned to New York in the Fall of 1913, Wendie returned to Andover. A few days later Clifford Moore and his fiancée came to see me. They told me that Mr. Stokes was trying to "frame" evidence against me.

They said he had asked them to testify in a divorce suit against me that he had seen me in Wendie's bedroom during that Summer and that he had told them that he was going to get an affidavit from Wendie making a confession supporting their testimony. I was speechless with horror and amazement. Mr. Stokes had told me many times that unless I could make him his wishes and did things which I could never bring myself to do, he would divorce me but I had never thought about it seriously, because I knew he would never have any grounds. As soon as I mentioned the divorce he said, "I suppose Clifford told you." He said, "Well, what are you going to do about it? I told you I'd get rid of you, didn't I?" The next day my brothers, Roland and I, went to Andover to see Wendie. As soon as I told him why I had come he began to cry. He said, "You know I would never let such a rotten lie about you. Nothing on earth could make me. You're the purest, sweetest woman I ever knew."

Dear Sir:

Yours of August 24th to hand. I am sorry we have not received any affidavit from you — we are getting them all the time.

As you state that Topley has found one employee of the Everleigh Club who knew the subject and will make an affidavit, that does not seem anything to me, if you would only give me the names and particulars, I could trace them down, because I may have his or her affidavit already, and I might know how to get the other.

Since August 24th, I have not received the affidavit that you were to get in the Topley matter.

Mr. Stokes had told me many times that unless I could make him his wishes and did things which I could never bring myself to do, he would divorce me but I had never thought about it seriously, because I knew he would never have any grounds. As soon as I mentioned the divorce he said, "I suppose Clifford told you." He said, "Well, what are you going to do about it? I told you I'd get rid of you, didn't I?" The next day my brothers, Roland and I, went to Andover to see Wendie. As soon as I told him why I had come he began to cry. He said, "You know I would never let such a rotten lie about you. Nothing on earth could make me. You're the purest, sweetest woman I ever knew."

I saw speeches with horror and amazement. Lawrence, Sept. 27.—Paul Claridge, nineteen-year-old Greenvale youth, was let off in Superior Criminal Court with a life term for killing a man who talked too much.

Claridge knocked down his victim, Norman I. Taler, in Greenvale, because Taler had been "kicking back his back." Taler's skull was fractured when he hit the sidewalk and he died a short time afterward.

WARNING TO OTHERS
Judge Robinson said in pronouncing sentence that he hoped the case would be a warning to those who spread scandal.

"Some people," said the court, are altogether too ready with their tongues. They should not slander or tell about one another. I wish this case to be a warning both to old and young who are too ready with their tongues."

RAPS SCANDAL MONGERS.
The court added that too little is said in churches about persons who talk too much. He counselled against telling the wrongs of a person, saying that those who do this wrong themselves.

"There is a Divine authority if not a court of law where such offenders are punished," said Judge Robinson. "Such offenders usually meet with reverses and hard luck and wonder why."

CHALLENGE TO FIGHT.
State Officer Richard J. Griffin of Haverhill outlined the facts in the case. He said that Claridge and Taler had been friendly with two young women sisters. Following a dance in the Greenvale town hall, Claridge lay in waiting for Taler and accused him of talking behind his back.

A challenge to fight was issued by Claridge. It was said that he declined on the ground that he had on his best clothes. An opportunity was given him to go home and change, but he refused to do so.

As he turned, Claridge charged, at an insolent remark was made, Claridge took exception by punching Taler's mouth. The young man was rendered unconscious and was carried to his home where he died shortly afterward.

After an autopsy had been made, a fractured skull, the State officer said. It was reported he added, that the injury which caused death was the blow in the mouth, but the fracture of the skull, probably caused when the young man struck the ground.

MRS. STOKES SEES MAN IN BEDROOM

"Will you swear to that if your father says he for divorce?" I asked him.

"I'll swear to it right now," and with his own pen and on the slip of paper of the school he wrote a statement positively denying that he had ever been unduly intimate with me at Lexington or at any other place.

That paper is now in my vault and is my most important exhibit in the suit that Charles B. Gerstein, my attorney, has filed for me against Wadsworth for the slanderous "Darling Day" letter which he had just written for his father in which he accused me.

MAN IN BEDROOM

The next move W. E. D. Stokes made to get rid of me was made in November, 1913. I was having breakfast one morning in my apartment in New York when a strange man snatched out of my husband's bedroom. I was frightened and screamed.

The man told me coolly that he had spent the night in the apartment and when I sent for the butler and asked how he got in, the butler admitted that Mr. Stokes had left word when he left town that the man was to be admitted to my house after I went to bed.

When I finally realized to what doubts my husband was willing to descend in order to divorce me, it was too late to turn back. My baby was coming and although life for me was literally the torment of Hell I was forced to go on for his sake.

FINAL CHAPTER

These pictures which he has shown all over the underworld in Chicago charging that they were made here are the worst of all because I know that Mr. Stokes knows positively just when and where these pictures were taken.

Under each and every one of them in the album which Mr. Stokes took from my table under my very eyes and refused to hand back to me, is written the date they were taken and the names of every one in the picture.

The final chapter of my life story will tell of the day Mr. Stokes kissed me and the babies goodbye to go on to town to business after a week-end in Narragansett Pier and of how, an hour later, he lawyer came to tell me that Mr. Stokes was going to file suit for divorce.

MATTAPAN GIRLS FIRST.

The first person to enter for the carnival was pretty brown-eyed fifteen-year-old Alma Babin of Whitman Park, Mattapan. Alma is a live wire. Likes to climb apple trees and cough up her energy into dog "snaps," so she naturally decided to attend the Comic Carnival attired in a costume to represent Ignatz, the funny little mouse. It gave her a chance to throw tricks. She says those she will throw at the carnival will be made of rubber. She doesn't want to injure the dance floor.

Alma's fifteen-year-old sister, Clara, will attend the masquerade dressed as "Crissy Kat."

ALL TO BE THERE.

All the other characters of the Boston American's comic supplement will be present at the big masquerade.

They will all take part in the grand march in an effort to win one of the twelve prizes that are to be awarded to the person wearing costumes which best represent characters of the American's wonderful comic supplement. A total of $100 in gold is to be given away in words.

Everybody is invited to take part in this big masquerade. The more, the merrier. We want everybody to have a rattling good time.

change. Mr. Gompers is consistent. He advocated beer and light wine, and attacked whiskey, long before prohibition was taken seriously.

MR. KRUTTSCHMIDT, head of the Southern Pacific, says railroads are highly prosperous. Traffic on his road exceeds everybody's. He ships six hundred cars of grapes daily from the Southern California valley. What do you suppose he comes of grapes?

THE PROSPERITY of railroads is good for the country. Intelligent railroad men, if they can make ends meet, will try to give some of that prosperity to the farmers in lower freight rates. Railroads should be encouraged and treated fairly. They in turn should meet the public half way.

NERVOUS WOMAN COMPLETE WRECK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I seemed that I had a nervous kind of ailment so that I could not carry a child to full time. The last time I was soiled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live and if I did that I would never be well and strong again. But I told him I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just like that. He told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. I soon got strong again and had three more children. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound ever since and if you could see me now you would think I had always been well."—Mrs. Mary E. Henshaw, 524 Detroit St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire reproductive system, so that it may work in every respect effectually as nature intends. KING TUT'S 'CURSE' STILL FELT; KIN OF LORD CARNARVON DIES

London, Sept. 27.—The superstition that Pharaoh Tutankhamon still exerts a malign influence upon the disturbers of his tomb has been revived by the death in London of Aubrey Herbert, halfbrother of the late Earl of Carnarvon.

Mr. Herbert, who died following an operation, did not enjoy a world wide reputation, but was well known in England as a traveler, diplomat and writer. He was awarded the Victoria Cross in 1914, and later served in the Dardanelles and in Egypt.

His friends recall that he strongly objected to the Earl of Carnarvon's activities at Luxor, believing it unbecomingly to interfere with the tomb of the dead.

A Treasure Hunt

A bowlegged sailor with a patch over one eye whispers behind a dirty hand. He tells of a long boat putting into a barren coral reef on a raven-black night, of the attack at dawn by the pursuers of the pirate vessel and of his escape! Over a glass of grog he sells a chart drawn on grimy parchment which will guide his hearer to rotted chests buried deep in shifting sand. After many adventures the treasure is found and yields Spanish doubloons, bars of silver, and many jewels.

Such is the treasure hunt of fiction.

The treasure hunt which we suggest that you undertake is not so picturesque or so difficult; but it is much more likely to bring forth treasure true.

Memory is the chart with which you start. Seek, by its aid, in bank vault, safe, bureau drawer, or desk for discarded jewelry and silver. Some pieces that you discover will need only cleaning; for fashion has once more made their use appropriate and becoming.

Others you will find unattractive or in poor condition. Bring them in to us. We will repair them or change them into something new and delightful. Many a gem shines with renewed youth and beauty when reset. Oftentimes it is a matter of only a few dollars to change an unwanted pendant or brooch into a ring or earrings of lasting delight.

FOOD QUERY DEPARTMENT

YOUR FOOD PURCHASING DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

A THURSDAY FEATURE

Are you at a loss as to where you can secure some particular brand or kind of foodstuffs? If so, write the Boston American Food Query Editor. We will answer your inquiry in these columns as quickly as possible.

Food Query Editor:
Will you please tell me where I can buy Ideal Shove Polish in the tubes, put up by National Sales Chain Company, New York. I got it off a fellow going around, for forty cents. Thanking you in advance.
MRS. E. M. B.
Campello, Mass.

Dear Sir:
We are in receipt of your esteemed favor of the 19th inst., requesting information on stores carrying Ideal Shove & Nickel Polishing Cream. In reply will say that we do not sell our Ideal Shove & Nickel Polish to the stores. Instead we sell direct to the consumer.

We will deem it a great favor if you will be kind enough to refer your inquiry direct to us so that we may take care of their wants. Thanking you in advance for your kind indulgence, as ever,
Very truly yours,
NATIONAL SALES CHAIN CO.

Food Query Editor:
We recently moved from Providence to Boston. For some time back I have been using a ham known as Honey Brand. I have found this ham to be a wonderfully cured piece of meat and suits our taste down to the ground. Could you through your interesting column, let me know where we could obtain the above brand of ham in Boston or Brookline?
H. L. S.
Brookline.

You can buy the Honey Brand Ham, put up by Parker Webb & Co., of Detroit, at the National Butcher Store of Coddage Corner, Brookline, or their Allston store on Harvard Ave.

Food Query Editor:
I would like to know where I could buy a pure honey put up in glass jars. I cannot remember the name of the brand, but I know that on the label it had a quotation that read "From the Home of Honeybees" and am quite sure this brand of honey was put up somewhere in Ohio. LOSES $1,600; SAVES GIRL FROM DEATH

New York, Sept. 27.—Samuel Peters, known to rail track habitués as "Kid Bebe," lost $1,600 on a horse race at Aqueduct, but won a race with death when he jumped from an "L" train and saved Mary McKenna, 12, from the third rail.

Peters was selling several friends how the jockey had failed and how he couldn't buy the flax when he noticed the train had stopped and passengers were looking from the windows. He looked too, and saw the girl on the third rail, her clothing in flames. No one else moved to help her for fear of an electric shock.

The "Kid" jumped from the car window, pulled the child from the deadly rail and smothered the flames rapidly enveloping her. The girl was taken to a hospital.

BRITISH RACING PLANE SINKS NOTED SWINDLERS ARE SEIZED

Crown, Isle of Wight, Sept. 27 (AP).—One of the two British seaplanes entered for the international races for the Schneider seaplane trophy tomorrow exploded and sank to deep water during the seaworthiness tests.

R. S. W. Keworthby, the pilot, was carried under by the machine, but rose to the surface and was rescued.

Barcelona, Spain, Sept. 27.—The man who for many years has been working what has become known as the "Spanish Prisoners' confessions game" have been arrested by the police. For years these swindlers have been flooding the world with sensational letters of appeal in behalf of fictitious prisoners who were represented as requesting financial assistance, so that they might pay their fine and obtain possession of valuable stolen treasure.

Raymond, N. J., Sept. 27.—Two workmen were killed and eight injured in an explosion in the plant of the Dolco & Covert Lignum Oil Company today. Three of the injured may die.

2 KILLED, 8 HURT, IN BLAST

A fire that followed the explosion destroyed a part of the plant. Help was called from surrounding towns. The cause of the explosion is not known.

FARM LEADERS ASK COOLIDGE FOR RELIEF

Washington, Sept. 27. (U.S.A.)—The first of a series of conferences which President Coolidge plans with farm leaders all over the country to formulate remedial measures for the economic betterment of the agricultural industry was held at the White House today.

A delegation of farmers and bankers from Northwestern States, where the most insistent demands have been made for immediate agricultural relief, urged the calling of a special session of Congress. They asked particularly for passage of legislation reviving the United States Grain Corporation, with an appropriation of $10,000,000, which, as during the war, would take over and distribute the entire wheat crop.

The recommendations of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to the Cabinet to lower freight rates on wheat and flour for export and to increase the tariff on wheat were urged by the delegation upon President Coolidge as further means to alleviate what was termed the most deplorable agricultural situation which has confronted the country since the World War.

The President expressed keen interest and told the delegation the administration is determined to exert every available power to find satisfactory methods to help the farmers.

WILL MAKE JOB SAFE FOR ALL MARGEL WAVES

Boston women whose cups are mechanical no longer need fear their tresses will contain cancerous lumps after the hairdresser has done his—no hair—stuff.

Steps to eliminate from the hair-dressing and permanent waving business all unscrupulous and inept operators will be taken by the National Association of Permanent Waves, it was announced today after a meeting of more than 100 members in New York City.

Calling attention to the danger of ruined locks through awkward methods employed by interlopers in the business, the association voted to examine all persons who seek entrance into it, with a view to eliminating the careless and the unskilled.

Hundreds—any thousands—of so-called experts recruited from stores and offices and whatnot have entered the beauty business without other preparation than a gassy sign announcing a willingness to wave or curl as wanted, the association declared, and they are endangering not only the hair but the future of the business itself.

Members, organizers of the well-known wave of that name, and Marie Amir, president of the association, declared that a nationwide movement would be started to rid the public of dishonest operators, and thus to confer on American women a lasting benefit.

PISTOL BATTLE IN JAIL, 2 CONVICTS AND KEEPER DEAD

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 27. — Willis Champion, assistant night jailer, and G. E. Gaines, under death sentence for murder in connection with a postoffice robbery here, and Peter Welk, another prisoner, were killed in an attempted jail delivery which got no farther than a pistol fight on the sixth floor of the Dallas County Jail.

The jailer was preparing to place a man in one of the cells when Gaines and Welk suddenly covered him with pistols. A prisoner said the jailer threw away the keys and Gaines fired.

A negro prisoner operating an elevator notified the jail force of the attempted break.

No More Gray Hair — Says Science

Wonderful Clean, Colorless Liquid Restores Original Color Results in a Week

Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean and colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the lost color to the hair and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—20 samples of hair required.

You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "dyed." Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair, or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a real substitute for the natural pigmentation.

Window Display for PUREOXIA Ginger Ale

This summer you have often seen these three "cut-out" people, almost as big as life in size, adorning the windows of Pureoxia Ginger Ale dealers with their pleasant invitation. Now, when summer and autumn meet, they are here again to tell you that Pureoxia tastes just as good in cool weather as it does in warm!

NOYES OFFERS WAY TO SOLVE TRAFFIC JAM

By John H. L. Noyes, Chairman Street Commission.

The traffic jam has reached such proportions in Boston that it is almost impossible to say just where the worst point is situated, or what is the principle cause of congestion, or what is the first or most necessary remedy to be applied. The real reason for our difficulties is the same as that in all other large cities, namely the street was laid out at a time when the horse drawn vehicle or the push cart was the only means of transporting passengers or freight.

RECENT FACTOR
With the fierce rush of transition to motor vehicle transportation and the absolutely undreamed of increase in the number of such vehicles in use there is bound to be an inadequacy in street area for the proper routing of this comparatively recent factor in city business.

In Boston, in addition to this cause, we have a purely local condition of congestion in the making of the business district itself and the fact that this congested district has only two real inlets or outlets to the North or South, Washington and Tremont streets.

It would seem from a study of this condition that the only logical solution is for the city to provide better and wider streets based on our present needs.

PARKING PROBLEM.
While this program is being worked out there are several palliative remedies that should be considered and applied, such as the abolition of long-time parking in the business section, the routing of traffic one way on Tremont street, the construction of traffic towers so that larger units of transportation could be moved at one time, the construction of pedestrian crossing tunnels, the removal of the whole-sale market district and the provision for public garages in the city proper.

All this, however, as has been said, is purely palliative or local and whether we or our descendants do it, the first remedy suggested must eventually be employed.

For Wider Streets

The chairman of Boston's street commission declares only wider streets can solve the traffic jam due to the coming of auto transportation. Any other plan, he says, is only palliative.

JAPAN OFFICIALLY THANKS U. S. FOR AID

Washington, Sept. 27.—The thanks and appreciation of Japan for the generous help extended by the American people during the recent disaster have been conveyed to the United States through Ambassador Woods.

A telegram to the State Department stated that Prince Tokugawa and Baron Sakurai, president and vice-president, respectively, of the House of Peers, accompanied by Viscount Shibusawa, called at the American embassy for that purpose.

U. S. RUM RUNNERS USE BRITISH FLAG

Washington, Sept. 27.—The bottom has dropped out of the literary B. Marshall case, so far as the forthcoming decision of the Supreme Court may have any international aspect. The Marshall, flying the British flag, was seized beyond the three-mile limit while enloading a cargo of rum. It has been developed that the British flag was a blind and that only Americans were financially interested in the venture.

MOOSE AND AUTO IN HEAD-ON CRASH IN CENTRE OF BANGOR

Bangor, Me., Sept. 27.—A big bull moose wandered into the city and when near Fourth and Union streets became bewildered by the lights of an approaching automobile driven by George J. Grant of No. 442 Main street and met it head-on, smashing the windshield and killing Mr. Grant's face with broken glass. Mr. Grant was taken to a hospital where it is said one eye is badly injured.

"It's just about as sensible to say that a child ten years old should not play golf or take strenuous exercise, as to make the same prohibition for men of fifty. Both the child of ten or the man of fifty might drop dead, while a well-preserved man might live to take such exercise easily."

GIANTS HAVE BEEN DRAWING POORLY
Over in New York the Giants, closely pressed by the Reds in the flag fight, have been drawing poorly. There have been plenty of empty seats at most of the Polo Grounds games this year. The Yanks are tired of the way the Giants go out and buy pennants.

FOOTBALL COACHES GET BIG MONEY
Next to being a bank president, or possibly a bootlegger, the best-paying job is that of a college football coach. Our colleges are more interested in turning out star football men than in turning out first-class students. And they are willing to pay the men who coach the gridiron heroes liberally.

HAMBONE AND PAT TO FURNISH DEMPSEY-FIRPO THRILLS

FIRST BIG BLOW MAY WIN OUT

By JACK CONWAY
Another one of those Dempsey-Firpo heavy cannonading affairs.

And the young man who gets even the first healthy knock is liable to be the one to leave the ring the victor.

This is how Ambrose Miller, the Fen man, who is the manager between the two fighters, says of the fight of Roxbury, which will be staged by the Suffolk A. A. at the Arena tomorrow night.

You will find that this is the closest thing to a real prize fight that has been staged in this city since the days of the Dempsey-Firpo battle in 1919. It brings together two of the best fighters in the New England boxing game.

Hambone is a terrific puncher. Mike McGuire, referee, says that he has never seen a fighter with such a powerful right hand.

Pat Fulton, who is the manager of the Fen man, says that he has never seen a fighter with such a powerful right hand.

I AM writing to you in Finlester, in the land of the Houmas, where the insurrection known as the French Revolution raged and smoldered so long, the mossy gray land of bristling fields, rocky nooks, tangled woods, lowland meads, mysterious traditional magic and religious pilgrimages and "pardon." It is a country made for gasatria war fare, and in wandering over it, lower level than that of the fields around, but that is not invariably the case. While traveling at the bottom of the screwing canal you have been the sport of a deception. For, after all, these are truly walls and not banks that shut you in and give you the impression of walking far below the surrounding country. However, there are places where you do go, as it were, through gates in the land.

The hollow roads are a landscape feature worth traveling far to see. They are narrow, sometimes as deep as broad, and bordered with thickets of overhanging trees, shrubbery, berries, bushes, and other vegetation, especially growing in the traveler's wake.

From the south and from both sides of the road, the forest comes rushing at you like a flood of green, brown, and blue. The forest

HEROINES OF HISTORY

MME. ROLAND'S EXECUTION

By Mark Stoyan

MADAME ROULAND, who has been called "the priestess of the French Revolution," was born in Paris, France, in 1817. She worked as an engraver. He was more artistic-practical, and the Piffussers were more radical. But notwithstanding, she had many suitors. Among them was Jean Roland, a gentleman lawyer, who was a friend of Dreyfus. She was the fairest which attracted this young girl, for she was a

† These included Br.-w. Pétion and Robespierre. In 1793, Madame Roland, [sic] Robespierre in many of his speeches. But as the movement grew, Robespierre became more radical. The Piffussers and Rolands remained to the conservative party of the revolutionists, the Girondins.

Madame Rolands were not in favor of the Terror, and it was for this reason and because M. Roland was a friend of Dreyfus, that Madame Roland owned a fine house, that Madame Roland was arrested and Dreyfus taken to prison.

Roland was inspector of manufactures at Amiens, where he took his bride. There they lived for four years, and then removed to Lyons.

At this time that Roland began some of his famous and valuable publications. They were signed with his name. But it was not he who wrote them.

Through these articles, which urged the republic, a correspondence was established with the people of which Madame Roland was the writing—and the leaders of the revolution.

That Shocking Newport Society Bull-Fight

Stern Police Protests,
S. P. C. A. Pleas and Reformers' Raigings Couldn't Stop the Elite from Staging Their Snorting Spectacle

Beautiful Mrs. Roland Dickson, One of the Newport Colonists, Who Sold Cigarettes at the Fiesta.

NEWPORT.
THAT subdued sound of chuckling which can be heard these days, rumbling like velvet thunder along the Rhode Island coast, is due to one joke, and one alone. But, as Newport's gilded gossip says, "It was such a GORGEOUS joke!"

What happened, in brief, was as follows: Newport possesses, among other things, an art association, no more every-day "Beautify Your City" body, but a distinguished club, with blue and silver trimmings—the first color signifying aristocratic blood, and the second fatness of bankroll.

The association found, to its horror, that "things" were getting a bit dull, so it planned to liven them up. And what better stimulant for drowsy resorters could there be, asked the officers, than a Spanish fiesta?

Now to make the fiesta even fiercer, certain inventive committeemen and committeewomen announced—a bullfight! Then it was that the lid of local propriety blew off. Protests boiled up and over. Threats of raids, rages and replevins simmered. And all for nothing.

Why? Simply because the bull fight turned out to be short on fight—and long on "bull!"

Occurring in some socially negligible town, such an incident might have passed unnoticed. But in Newport, where wealth fosters fashion, and both strive to banish ennui, the city limits were neither long enough nor strong enough to clamp down the story.

Society, uncommonly faithful to a first love, has been leading Newport even more than usual "tame" this season. Deauville and Etretat may beckon; Brighton and Brittany hold out appealing hands to Americans; the Riviera catch in its net certain spiffy spenders. But Newport remains, solidly and substantially, "the" place where it's correct and logical to go, my dear.

So, on the eve, more or less, of the art association's fiesta, the cottage and hotel roster suggested to the casual reader the connoisseur's cream of the de luxe dairy. There were Goilets from New York. Morris from Philadelphia were there, too. And even the Scottish nobility lent its prestige to a week that promised to give the death-stroke to dullness—and an innocent animal!

Plans for the fiesta had been carefully, and even lavishly, laid. Money was to be tossed about like so much Confederate currency in an effort to turn Newport into a replica of Seville. Orders were rushed to a dozen firms for confetti, ribbons, bunting, gay caps and gaudy capes, and all the paraphernalia of a Spanish city en fete.

"We'll do this thing properly or perish in the attempt," cried Mrs. Howard Spencer Graham, chairman of the fiesta committee. "We'll have a picador, matador and torero. We'll get the best-looking women in Newport to impersonate senoritas and senoras. We'll get that clever young artist, Catherine Wharton Morris, of Philadelphia, to write a scenario for the event, so that nothing goes amiss. And to cap the festivities' climax, we'll wind up with a gorgeous Spanish ball, at which correct costumes MUST be worn—by everyone."

Mrs. Graham's deeds were no less spectacular than her words. Willing hands, assisted by well-stuffed pocket-books, leaped to the labor of love. Good-looking young Francis Donaldson volunteered to sound the martial trumpet at the ringside. Erich A. O. D. Taylor said he'd impersonate a picador. Carl Winter was nominated for the perilous post of horseman. Frank Boyzan, as the matador, Benjamin Wood as the benevolent padre, and the Winter girls, Mary and Francis, as stately senoritas—these were some of the delightful possibilities that the programme held forth.

The first to see Mrs. Nicholas Biddle ordered a costume—she was down on the list as the Queen of Spain—which might well have graced a royal palace. An Iberian conjurer's role was allotted Ogden Goelet, while tango dancers, flower and cigarette girls, and jugglers to entertain the "Spanish" populace were all provided for in Miss Morris' scenario. But these were only a few of the social and artistic side-lights of the programme.

Miss Asta Mober, beautiful prima donna of the Swedish Royal Opera Company, agreed to sing at the festa. Three Spanish students, attending the Summer school at Harvard University, came tramping up from Cambridge to look over the "properties" and assure Mrs. Graham that the "atmosphere" was truthful. Mrs. Maudie Howe

Elliott, secretary of the bury art association, issued invitations to a very select luncheon for Sir John and Lady Mitchell, of Ayr, Scotland.

Meanwhile, news of this prodigious holiday was beginning to be noised about under the very noses of the planners. "A Spanish fiesta? Oh, that's all right," murmured the police. "But what about the bull fight?" And "Don't tell us that spectacle so as we have read about," muttered the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Certain quite unofficial, but very active, "reformers" commenced to mean in a low key, giving a splendid imitation of the Spirit of Insignation. In fact, they might have ridden on a float into the bull-ring and been acclaimed, as such, one hundred per cent.

Time passed. The fiesta-frolics were, apparently, "all set." The costumes had arrived. The bands had been engaged. The ring had been sawdusted. But still, much to the bewilderment of police, S. P. C. A. and unofficial reformers, nothing faintly resembling a bull had put in his appearance.

"They're importing one from Mexico," ran the whispered report. "Have the Chief of Police watch all incoming trains." So trains were watched—but vainly. "They're smuggling him in from the bay,"

Miss Hester Lanning, as a Sprightly Senorita, and Ogden Goelet, as an Iberian Conjuror, Two of the Most Picturesque Spectators of the Newport Bull-Fight.

grained old Dame Rimmer. "Search all vessels that look like cattle transports." So maritime scouts were sent out—but vainly. "A real Spanish torero, from New York, is bringing the bull in, disguised as a Rhode Island cow." "They say it'll be the bloodiest afternoon Newport has ever seen." "Stop it! Stop it! STOP IT!"

These were some of the comments that rose in a hysterical chorus during the week of the fiesta.

The art association remained ominously calm. It was refused to let its nerves be ruffled by the grim attentions of blue-coats, stationed outside the arena, as the guests poured into the sun-pattered streets of "Seville." But it was noted that, in the crowd of merry-makers, were various unmythical faces—the reformers to be before. Here and there an S. P. C. A. worker had wedged in. The police, straining at the leash, peered through chinks, ready for instant action. It was a truly brilliant scene that greeted their eyes. The chosen grounds had been transformed as though by some wily wizard's wand. In the centre of the street hung an old bell, which tolled solemnly, from time to time, as though to remind spectators that Spain was a country of tears and blood, as well as festivity and froth.

Stones, painted in the most gorgeous shades of orange, scarlet and green, offered their wares to the passerby. Rambler roses, sweet peas and dahlias sent up a symphony of delicate odors, and intrigued the appreciative eye with their profusion of tints.

Booths, crammed with knickknacks for the children, acted magnetically on the boys and girls present, while still other youngsters followed in the train of Ogden Goelet as the conjurer—a veritable Pied Piper, though of Seville, instead of Hamelin Town.

Then came the great moment. As the trumpet thrilled, and matador and picador, in crimson and green, stood at attention, there trotted, wabbly and woefully, into the ring such a bull as Newport had never before seen. Its eyes were glassy and fixed. Its tail was a wisp of rope. Its legs had only the slightest suggestion of life. And that body was of PAINTED CLOTH!

Of the bloodiest, but immensely amusing, combat that ensued, police, S. P. C. A. workers and unofficial reformers were not witnesses. They departed, going rapidly, speedily and quietly. Nor did they even on their hasty way to inquire what the society man inside the bull was "bull fight," granted one vanishing "flashlight." "Bull fight! I've heard of 'em before. But this is the only one, take it from me, that was NO fight and ALL bull!"

HAVE YOU REALLY RECEIVED THE CENSURE YOU DESERVE?

There are times when you feel that you have been given the credit you deserve for your accomplishments—that you are not appreciated as you should be.

When you have such notions, remember that you have received as much credit as you deserve for your shortcomings.

You have done many worthy things, but so many more things could be laid at your door if the truth were to come out.

Eliminating some of the good fortune and favorable "breaks" that have benefited you, what would be the sum total of your accomplishments today?

If you had had as many setbacks, one after another, as some others whom you know, you would not be comfortably situated as you are at present.

The Boston American will pay $1 for "Best Joke" published in "Address: 'Best Joke,' Boston American.

A young man entered a jeweler's store and asked if he could return the ring he had purchased the day before.

"Why, yes," said the clerk. "But didn't the ring suit all right?"

"The ring suited all right," replied the crestfallen youth, "but I didn't."
